

Seeing the Capital Differently

Trees

Welcome to CityThemes

By printing this leaflet you have decided to discover, or rediscover, the sights and delights of London in a different way. We hope that you enjoy your explorations of our fascinating and historical capital city.

This leaflet has been designed to allow you to explore as the mood takes you. Both well-known and lesser-known attractions are included and they are randomly listed so that you plan your own itinerary and visit as many or as few as you wish.

Please note:- some places restrict entry and ask for prior application either in writing or by telephone. This is indicated where known. Others may change opening days and hours with little warning – it may be worth checking by phone if they are off the beaten track.

A very brief description of the reason for the choice of site is given but because of space it is not possible to include much detail. Again a telephone call to the site may help you to decide on whether a visit is worthwhile. Remember there may be other items that interest you at the same site.

Themes are constantly being updated and new titles added so please keep looking at our website or get in touch with us by e-mail or letter. We welcome your comments especially if you feel that some site should be included or details are incorrect/inaccurate. Contact details are the trees in this leaflet are listed because they are unusual, exotic or decorative. There are many beautiful trees in London especially in the parks and squares and places to see good examples of the most common are given below:

plane trees - can be seen throughout the city especially along some of the major streets and in the many squares and parks. Some grow to great height and age. Some of the best can be seen at

- ❖ Berkeley Square, W - a 1789 tree believed to be the oldest in London
- ❖ Mount Street Gardens, W1 - 200 years old
- ❖ Fitzroy Square, W1 - planted 1817
- ❖ 9-10 Park Square East, NW1 - planted 1817 to commemorate Battle of Waterloo
- ❖ Cornwall Gardens - planted 1879 believed to be tallest in London cedars - examples of these magnificent trees can be found in:

- ❖ Forty Hall Museum grounds, Forty Hill, Enfield, Middlesex EN2
- ❖ Chiswick House grounds, Hogarth Road, W4
- ❖ Osterley Park House gardens, Isleworth, Middlesex TW7
- ❖ Boston Manor House gardens, Brentford, Middlesex TW6
- ❖ Mount Clare, Minstead Gardens, Roehampton, SW15 - planted 1773 by the landscape gardener, Capability Brown
- ❖ Templeton House, Priory Lane, Roehampton, SW15

others:

- ❖ Beech - Richmond Park, TW10 - 19th century trees
- ❖ Chestnut - Bushy Park, Hampton, Middlesex, TW12 - along Chestnut Avenue
- ❖ Oaks - Alexandra Palace and Park N22 - Richmond Park, TW10 - 300-400 years old with twisted contorted trunks
- ❖ Giant Sequoia - Brookwood Cemetery Woking, Surrey - an avenue
- ❖ Weeping Willows - St James's Park, SW1 - by the lake
- ❖ Indian Bean - outside Houses of Parliament, SW1

in 2000 a black and white pebble mosaic was laid out on the pathway in the north east part of the park near to Marble Arch. This is the Reformers Tree that commemorates the struggle for political enfranchisement in the 19th century. The inscription round the edge gives an explanation while pointer markers incorporated in the design direct the visitor to various parts of the park.

the original tree was burnt down in 1866 during the Reform League riots and the stump became a notice board for political demonstrations and a gathering point for meetings. In 1872 Speakers' Corner was designated for this purpose and has remained one of three places in London where public speaking is allowed (if you like to hear both speakers and hecklers on almost every imaginable subject then Sunday afternoon is best!) . A new Reformers' Tree was planted on the spot of the original tree by the Prime Minister James Callaghan in 1977 originally an Elizabethan house and then converted to neo-classical design in the 18th century this interesting house has an equally interesting garden. There is a drive of chestnut trees, three lakes (1750s), a Doric temple to Pan by William Chambers and a semi-circular garden house of 1780 by Robert Adam. There is an arboretum for trees of special scientific interest and a pinetum with exotic evergreens. The cork oak is probably 200 years old and the Lebanon cedar was planted in the 1760s. In all a great deal to admire
